

Disclaimer Eco Resilience

EcoResilience is a project operated by The Route 66 Foundation (Stichting Route 66), a registered non-profit organization committed to sustainability, inclusivity, and personal development.

The information provided on this website and in communications is for general informational purposes only. EcoResilience makes no guarantees regarding completeness, accuracy, or suitability of content. Participation involves inherent risks associated with physical, mental, and emotional engagement in natural settings.

EcoResilience disclaims all liability for injuries, damages, or losses except in cases of proven gross negligence or willful misconduct (Código Civil Articles 1101–1104, EU Consumer Protection Law). Participants accept full responsibility for their actions and experiences and agree to comply with EcoResilience policies, including immediate exclusion for breaches such as alcohol or drug use.

This disclaimer also applies to third-party links or resources provided by EcoResilience; we do not control or endorse external content. EcoResilience reserves the right to amend or update content without notice.

Disclaimer Statement

By accessing this website or participating in EcoResilience activities, you accept this disclaimer and confirm your understanding and acceptance of all terms, conditions, and policies. You acknowledge that you engage at your own risk and that EcoResilience is not responsible for actions outside its control.